LIBERTY BOND BOOSTERS BOOST

Rain Necessitates the Holding of Meeting in Opera House ---Large Crowd Out

SPEAKERS ENTHUSE CROWD

In spite of the very unfavorable weather of last Saturday afternoon, the auto parade of Liberty loan boosters arrived in Antioch on schedule time. Just at the time when the weather was the most threatening and all hope of their coming had been abandoned, it was learned through the telephone central that the "bunch" was at Libertyville and were headed this way. A phone call was immediately sent them at Graylake to the effect that if they came to Antioch a hall would be open to receive them. Their answer was "we will be there in an hour" and in just about that time they were here.

In the meantime Rev. Pollock and his well trained Boy Scouts got busy and besides setting the church and school bells in motion to tell the people that no parade was coming, the boys divided themselves in groups and made a tour of the village, stopping at every door and telling the people that the meeting would be held in the opera house. As a result of their efforts a large crowd gathered, and when the visitors arrived they were met with a hearty cheer.

Although it was a hastily arranged affair, it was declared by all present to have been one of the best meetings held in Antioch in many a month. After a short march on Main street the Fort Sheridan military band gave several pieces in the opera house. The first speaker of the program was Attorney King who plainly showed the people in what direction their duty lay. He was followed by Attorney Dyer who brought with him an unlimited amount of facts and figures and by his clever illustrations succeeded in bringing the war and its meaning close to the hearts of many of our citizens.

Lieutenant Jenney now stationed at Camp Grant, then took the platform and in very plain words told the people the only way to "win the war" was to loosen their purse strings. C. H. Burnett, County Chairman of the Liberty Loan Sales Committee, then said a few words to the people and thanked them for their attendance, after which the band gave a couple more selections and the meeting was disbanded. Upon leaving the hall everyone was surprised at the length of time the speaking had lasted, for so interesting was it that the time passed all too quickly.

The boosters were scheduled to appear at Zion City on 6:15 o'clock, but as they did not leave Antioch until about that time they were obliged to cancel the Zion City date and return direct to Waukegan where a banquet and an evening meeting had been planned. There is no question but that the sale of Liberty Bonds throughout the county was much increased by the Saturday work of these men.

Sablin for members of the board. There being no opposition the entire ticket was elected. The grade school election was held in the evening and there too, there was no opposition. Geo. Bartlett was elected for President, Mrs. Chas. Alvares and A. Rentner for members of the board.

Patriotic Address for Women

During this period of the war where all interest is directed towards the noble young men who have left our country to go and fight for a great cause, where people are busy in Red Cross work we must be careful not to neglect those venerable old men who fought in 1899 to preserve the Union. There will be two representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps at the Simons house Saturday afternoon at four o'clock to address the ladies of Antioch. It is hoped that a large number will

The question of financing local and county war and governmental activities was discussed. The Chamber of Commerce reported having advanced and underwritten the expense incident to certain activities of the county fuel Administrator (approximately $200); the Local Draft Board (approximately $100); County War Garden Advisor (approximately $50); Waukegan and North Chicago federal food administrator (approximately $75); and other incidental expense amount to approx-imately $150.

After discussion, it was decided the County Executive Committee should not only take of this account, but also provide for future expense.

The chairman of the finance commit-tee, Mr. Clark, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Be it resolved that the Lake County executive committee of the State Council of Defense endorse an application to be made by the County Auxiliary com-mittee to the Board of Supervisor of Lake county, for an appropriation of not less than one thousand ($1000) dol-lars to help finance the various activi-ties which have been and should be carried on under the direction of the County Executive Committee of the State Council of Defense, and with the suggestion that the amount appropri-ated be placed to the credit of the Chair-man of the Lake County Finance Com-mittee of the State Council of Defense."

Village Loses Suit

The case of the Village of Antioch vs. Maurice R. Lux was threshed out in the County Court on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, coming to a close late Thursday afternoon.

The case grew out of a trouble which arose at a dance in this village last fall. At that time Lux was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and was brought before Justice of the Peace Harry A. Isaacs. He was found guilty and a fine of fifty dollars was imposed. Lux however decided to carry the matter into the County court rather than pay the fine, and employed At-torney H. A. Shea to conduct the de-fense.

After a deliberation of about fifteen minutes the jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

GOD AND GOT

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

Who soothes the sighs of sorrow
And heals the hurts of pain?
Who gives us for the morrow
The songs we sing again?
Who taught us love for others?
Who guards us as we roam?
Who links our hands as brothers
And sanctifies the home?

Who girds our souls with sureness
That we may cast out fear?
Who blesses woman's pureness
And bids us hold it dear?
Oh, whispered in our praying
From cradle to the sod
Our name—our faith displaying—
The hallowed name of God!

Who teaches torture's terror
And laughs at lies and loot?
Who holds no faith is fairer
Than one to shame a brute?
To whom are women shrieking
And sobs of children maimed
As sweet as some one speaking
Of those both loved and famed?

Who spurns the ill and lowly
That falter at his gate?
Who holds supremely holy
The hoarsest curse of hate?
Oh, bestial, hellish being—
On God's great name a blot!
Unthinking and unseeing,
The Prussians call it Gott!

One Hundred and Forty-Two Years of Labor and Struggle

THE American people fought their first battles for liberty and the rights of self-government one hundred and forty-two years ago.

At that time, and for many years thereafter, their realization of their national aspirations and of the goal toward which they were really striving was vague and indistinct. But step by step they struggled onward and upward toward a light which grew clearer as their eyes and minds slowly opened to its significance. Today, as a result of their struggles and their sacrifices, we possess and enjoy our priceless American institutions.

These institutions must be preserved. The structure so laboriously reared in these one hundred and forty-two years will be utterly destroyed if we do not spring to its defense with every atom of our energy and determination. This is not a situation which may be trifled with, or evaded, or put off. It is one which must be met now—today—no matter what sacrifices it may entail, or what the cost may be.

A Letter From a Soldier in France

The following letter was received by Mrs. Chas. Rudolph from her brother Harold who is now in France:

Dear Sister, Brother and all: Received your welcome letter today and was very glad to hear from you, also to hear that all are well. No doubt you have received my last letter stating that I arrived safely in France, and find it all that I expected, it certainly is a very pretty country, that is, where it is not torn to pieces. After here almost a year I will get a two weeks leave and as I spent last (Xmas) leave in London, I am going to see Paris next time, and if I am lucky enough to do so I surely will have something to remember.

How is the milk situation there, I hope the farmers get a fair deal, as this is no time for trouble of any kind at home. They must all stand united until this thing is won. My greatest hope is that all of you "over there" will try and double your production of food stuffs this year and every year until the boys return. Show the world what the U. S. A. can do, and show us that you stand behind us in every respect and I know they will all do it, as that is the good American spirit. We are all proud of the name American, and now we must prove that we are worthy of it (the same as our forefathers who made America) old years ago. Be sure and write soon my address remains the same. Love to all, Harold.

FREQUENT CULTIVATION SHOULD BE FOR GARDEN VEGETABLES

Hand Cultivator. Power for Their Home-Made Cultivator.

The first step in the cultivation of garden vegetables is the frequent cultivation. The garden lies in proper care and preparation. The large, entire seedbeds, the soil pulverized as deep as the plow. The next step is to place the rows of vegetables in straight and uniform rows. It is when the rows are laid out that there will be a good time for the horse to walk, or be employed in cultivation. The wheel hoe will be a good tool for the gardener to use. Frequent cultivation should be given garden vegetables. By keeping the surface of the soil stirred, the weeds are prevented from starting. The soil should be cultivated as soon as dry and prevent baking. Sandy soils should be cultivated when quite wet, but not enough to cling together in clumps when lightly squeezed in the hand. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the matter of thorough cultivation. If the work is properly done at the right time, there will be little difficulty in controlling weeds. If the work is to be done with horse-drawn tools, the five-shovel cultivator is an excellent tool, as it breaks the surface thoroughly, destroying weeds very effectively, and leaves the ground fairly level. The hand cultivator is a good implement, as it can be used for small growing vegetables and those planted too close for horse cultivation. Hand Work Essential. Some hand work is always essential, no matter how thoroughly the horse cultivation is done. It is a good plan to go over the garden after finishing with the cultivator and, by means of the hoe or rake, pull clods and stones from around the plants, remove any weeds not destroyed by the cultivation, and uncover any plants accidentally covered by clods or earth during the cultivation. It is an excellent plan to train tomatoes, peas, etc., on stakes or other supports, as this makes it possible to keep the garden in good condition with a minimum of labor.

ERADICATE GARDEN PEST

Most Effective Method of Combating Nematode Gallworms is to Starve It to Death.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The very serious losses caused by the gallworm nematode in gardens, especially in the South, have resulted in the trial of numerous methods of control. One of the most effective methods yet tested is to starve the pest. This may be accomplished by dividing the garden into two parts, one of which is available for cultivation, fowls being kept on the other half and changed from one to the other about every two to four years. The gallworm is absolutely dependent on the roots of the higher plants for its nourishment. If no such plants are allowed to grow, the pest is starved, and in the course of a year or two it can be brought to a stage where its ravages will not be serious.

Alternate Garden and Fowl Run.

The suggested alternation of fowl run with garden may be brought about simply by fencing in the fowls. If possible, it would be well to arrange the division of the land in the direction of its slope, so that the drainage will not be from the garden to the fowl run or vice versa. The idea is to keep the fowl run free from vegetation for a year or two. This means that about the maximum number of fowls for the area must be kept and that the soil must be occasionally spaded or otherwise stirred. This stirring of the soil is a good thing for the fowls and helps also to reduce the nematode pest, for every time the earth is spaded fresh soil is brought to the action of the sun and air and becomes more or less disinfected through their action on the eggs and larvae of the pest.

There are thousands of gardens where this procedure is practicable. Definite information with regard to the existence of the gallworm nematode may be obtained by submitting abnormal roots to the department of agriculture for examination.

HUMUS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Adds Plant Food and Makes It Available—It Supplies Media in Which Bacteria Live.

Humus adds plant food and makes plant food available. It supplies media in which the soil bacteria live and multiply, causing chemical changes in the soil which make the plant food elements soluble and available to plant roots. It enriches the soil, giving good tilth and a texture favorable to soil aeration and to the absorption and holding of soil moisture.

Garden Peas a Favorite Crop.

Garden peas are a favorite crop in the home garden, and as they are not injured easily by light frosts, they may be planted as soon as the soil can be put in order in the spring. By selecting a number of varieties, it is possible to have a crop in the garden, while the weather is so warm, to be ready to eat when the weather turns cold.

HORTIKULTUR

The weather never meets the specifications of the lazy gardener.

Little backs don't have to bend so far to get the weeds. A drop of solder on the watering can? Efficiency plus.

PRUNE FRUIT-BEARING TREE

Attention Must Be Given to Removal of Wood as Well as to Height and Formation.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In pruning a fruit-bearing plant like the apple, attention must be given not only to the height and formation of the head, but to the removal of wood as well. The apple bears its fruit on spurs which are themselves developed from wood one year or more of age. For that reason, therefore, the removal of wood which carries fruit spurs reduces the crop the tree is capable of bearing. This, then, is a practicable way of thinning the fruit. Besides accomplishing this result pruning can be used to lessen the annual growth and force the energy of the plant which would naturally be used in making wood into the fruit, thus increasing its size or enabling the tree to carry a larger quantity than would be possible were a normal wood growth permitted.

MUCH PLANT FOOD IS LOST

Anywhere From Twenty to Sixty Per Cent of Fertilizer Is Wasted by Elements of Weather.

The results of experiments carried on by experiment stations in this country and Canada show that anywhere from twenty to sixty per cent of the real plant food contained in manure is lost where the manure is exposed to the leaching and wasting of the weather, for from two to eight months, as the manure on so many farms is allowed to be before being returned to the soil.

Planting Carrots.

Carrots planted in the early spring are used commonly in the fall as well as during the summer, but a much more tender product is obtained for fall and winter use if a second planting is made about June 15 to July 1.

Favorite Garden Plants.

Radishes and lettuce are favorite plants in small gardens because, while these are attractive additions to the table, they are in a way luxuries on which many housewives hesitate to spend money.

Phosphate Is Needed.

Such vegetables as beans, peas, radishes, cantaloupes, peppers, eggplant, etc., require considerable phosphate results. It is possible to supplement soil with phosphorus.

A CONVERSATION

Between Mr. Doubtful and Mr. Right

Mr. Doubtful: "I don't see how I can buy any more Liberty Bonds. I bought all I could last fall. I'm not a rich man and I don't think it's fair or just to expect me to do anything more than I have done."

Mr. Right: "Let's see—your next-door neighbor's boy enlisted, didn't he?"

Mr. Doubtful: "Yes, he's over in France now. Mighty fine, stalwart boy, that!"

Mr. Right: "Exactly, and some day that splendid boy, the pride of his parents' hearts, may go 'over the top' in a gallant charge, stop a German bullet, and fall in the mud and debris of No Man's Land. Isn't that asking too much of him, and of his family? Is that 'fair'? Is that 'just'?"

Mr. Doubtful: "Why, it's awful, of course, but it can't be helped. This is war, and men have to be killed in it."

Mr. Right: "You've said it—this is war! To win the war it might be necessary for the government to take your factory away from you, and ruin your business. It might be necessary to take your house and turn you out in the street. What of that? Is that as great a sacrifice as your neighbor makes, or stands ready to make, when he gives his boy to his country? Yet you don't think it's your duty to pinch and save, and borrow, need be, in order to buy Liberty Bonds and thus help shorten the war, make victory certain, and save the lives of thousands of American boys who will otherwise be uselessly sacrificed."

Mr. Doubtful: "I guess that's true, Mr. Right, I have been thoughtless. I'll stop complaining and criticizing, and put up my last dollar if need be, to help win this war."
